Call for Papers

Scholars/Researchers are invited to submit their research papers and manuscripts for possible inclusion in the upcoming issue of the Journal of Law and Social Policy (JLSP).

Journal of Law and Social Policy (JLSP) is an English language annual research journal which is published under the auspices of the Department of Law, Bahria University, Islamabad. It is designed to contribute to the understanding of law from different perspectives. It aims to provide research articles on different aspects of legal and social issues, which include papers on Religion, Philosophy, Psychology, Anthropology, Environmental Issues, Sociology, Culture, Civilization, Politics, Economics and Development. Besides research articles, book reviews are also welcomed. We welcome interdisciplinary contributions in areas of relevance to the law and, in particular, work that uses techniques of social sciences and humanities to contribute to understanding in legal studies. The contributions pertaining to applied research, being practical and timely, will be given preference, however, papers of historical nature will be considered if providing useful or unique insights on the interaction between law and social policy.
