GUIDELINES FOR MCQs PAPER SETTERS

Multiple choice questions (MCQ) are a great way to test a student's comprehension level of a particular subject matter. Here are some ideas to utilize when constructing multiple choice test questions:

- a. Don't use excessive wording when creating the test question stem. Be clear and concise in your word and phrase choices.
- b. Make sure that there is only one clearly correct answer from the options given to the student.
- c. Provide between 3-5 plausible choices for the student to select from as their answer
- d. Minimize the use of 'all of the above' or 'none of the above' question answers.
- e. Equally and distribute the correct answer options i.e. A, B, C, D (25% each) etc so that there is no clear pattern that becomes obvious to the student in each section.
- f. Be sure to use test questions that test knowledge, application, comprehension, analysis and evaluation throughout your test to get the best overall sense of the student's understanding and mastery of a subject matter they have passed last.
